

Interview for Channel 9 TV Program

“อัจฉริยะ 9 มิติ” (An All-Round Genius)

I feel honored to have been able to bring recognition once again to Harrow International School through my interview for a TV program at Harrow on January 4, 2014; the manager of the program contacted Khun Khanitha. The purpose of this interview was to recognize me as a role-model for young Thais to follow with regards to not only academics, but also community service, music, sports and making contributions to all aspects of the school. Also, they wanted to encourage Thai students to think outside the box through applying the knowledge learnt in class into practical use that will serve to be beneficial – this directly relates to my research on Edible Insects which I produced from applying my knowledge gained from class and experience from supporting less fortunate schools in the provinces. I also gave advice on how to manage time efficiently as the interviewers were surprised with how I was able to maintain excellent exam results while also being engaged in so many activities, but ultimately my answer to many of their questions ended up with me saying how it has been because of my school, Harrow – its teachers, facilities and opportunities offered – that has molded and shaped me to who I am today since I first stepped into its domain in 2001. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Khun Khru Khanitha and Mr. van den Berg for supporting me in this and being interviewed for this program and my fellow Lionheart Society members who had joined in with the interview at the slum community.

This program was aired on January 8, 2014 at 18:00-19:00, TV Channel 9
